

The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, November 17. 1714.

London, November 17.

Yesterday arrived the Mail from Holland.

From the Hag. Cour. and Amst. Gaz. dated Nov. 13.

Vienna, November 10.

TH E Advices concerning the King of Sweden do not agree with what we have said formerly. Those from Wallachia say, that Prince arrived there the 30th of October, and was encamped at a Place named Petisti, a League distant from the Capital of that Country, and two Days Journey from the Frontiers of Transylvania, where he will wait the Return of an Express which he has sent to M. Sternhoeck his Secretary at Vienna, with Orders to make his Excuses at the Imperial Court for his not writing a Letter to desire Passage through the hereditary Countries; which he omitted through the uncertainty whether such Letter would have been received without giving in it the Title of King of Spain to the Emperour, that being a Condition in the Permission for Passage, which however he could not do at present, but as soon as he is arrived in his own Dominions he will examine that Affair and take some Resolution upon it; adding, that he should not advance into Transylvania till he understood the Sentiments of the Imperial Court upon this Matter, M. Sternhoeck having accordingly addressed himself to this Court, received for Answer, that the Emperour had not granted the King Passage through his Dominions with Intention to obtain thereby an Acknowledgment of his Title of King of Spain, but through Amity and Hospitality, and therefore his Majesty may freely continue his Journey, and be assured that he shall be received in such Manner as he himself shall think fit. That Minister dispatched an Express with this Advice the 31st past to the King his Master, and 'tis believed his Majesty may arrive by the 12th of this Month in Transylvania. Some Advices from Hungary pretend to say, that his Majesty is already arrived at Buda, but that is not credited.

These Letters add, that M. van Grootenhuysen, who was at Constantinople assured the Porte, that his Master the King of Sweden would thankfully repay the Costs they had been at upon his Account; but was answered, that the Sultan did not expect the least return, the Porte having received sufficient Satisfaction by what had happened since his Majesty came into Turkey, namely, the deposing of six Grand Viziers, by which an Opportunity was given of gaining great Wealth, and the great Advantages gained over the Muscovites by the surrender of Azoph with a District of 30 Miles round it, and the Liberty of building the Fortifications of Chocim.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Nov. 14.

Vienna, Nov. 10. The Declaration which all the Princes of the Palatine Family and the King of Sweden among the rest have made, that they will stand by the Elector in his Claim to the Upper Palatinate or an Equivalent for it, gives this Court some uneasiness; and the more so in that the Bavarian Troops are marching from Luxembourg to take Possession of that as well as the Duchy of Bavaria, whence ill Consequences may ensue. 'Tis therefore reported, that the Court is projecting to give that Elector an Equivalent in some part of the Netherlands.

From the Hague Courant, dated Nov. 13.

Ratisbon, Nov. 13. The Swedish-Bremen Envoy has declared in the Diet, that he has received Orders to support the Protestation made by the Elector Palatine, and entered into the Protocoll the 4th of October, against the full Restoration of the Elector of Bavaria.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Nov. 13.

Antwerp, Nov. 19. 'Tis advised from Ghent, that divers Passengers arrived there from Dunkirk unanimously relate, that the French work daily with very great diligence upon the new Canal of Mardyke; and that on Thursday last 5 Waggons laden with Money arrived there from Paris to pay the Workmen.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Nov. 23.

Brussels, Nov. 19. Last Friday Count Coningsbeck, Lieutenant General Cadogan, and the two Dutch Ministers Gockinga and Geldermalsen, who have been here for some Days past, returned to Antwerp, where they held that Evening a Conference: And the next Day M. Cadogan departed thence to go to the Hague for a short time.

Hague, Nov. 21. Yesterday Lieutenant General Cadogan delivered to the States-General his Credentials as Envoy extraordinary from the King of Great Britain, and had the same Day a Conference with the Deputies of the States and those of the Council of State upon the Subject of the Barrier. His Excellency will return to Antwerp in two or three Days, and will be accompanied by M. Vander Dussen and the Count de Richtecken.
